Beginning with the 2008 financial crisis, Rickards traces the rise of a new global financial elite who have used their power and influence to manipulate the monetary system for their own gain. He reveals how these elites have used quantitative easing, zero interest rate policies, and other unconventional monetary tools to create a massive bubble in asset prices that has enriched the few at the expense of the many.

But Rickards's story is not just about the financial crisis. It is also about the human cost of financial manipulation. He tells the stories of ordinary people who have lost their jobs, homes, and savings as a result of the financial crisis. He shows how the global financial elite have turned a blind eye to the suffering of millions while they continue to line their own pockets.

"The Scientists, Fraudsters, and Corrupt Politicians Who Reinvented Money—and Panicked" is a wake-up call for anyone who is concerned about the future of the global financial system. Rickards shows how the current system is rigged in favor of the few and how it is leading the world to disaster.
