Through his vivid depictions, these creatures become tangible, their presence felt alongside the human characters that populate these tales.

Exploring the Tales of Tono Monogatari

The stories within Tono Monogatari are as diverse as the landscapes they inhabit. From mischievous kappa lurking in rivers to the haunting presence of mountain spirits, each tale unfolds within the intricate tapestry of Japanese folklore. Mizuki's illustrations amplify the emotional resonance of these stories, giving a physical form to the fears, desires, and beliefs of the characters.

- The Kappa Child

This tale introduces us to a kappa, a mischievous water sprite with a childlike appearance. As it interacts with the human world, the kappa's playful nature takes on sinister undertones, showcasing the duality inherent in these supernatural beings.

- The Mountain Woman

Mizuki's haunting portrayal of the enigmatic mountain woman.

In this story, a solitary woodcutter encounters a beautiful yet mysterious woman who claims to be from the mountains. As their relationship deepens, he slowly uncovers the secrets that lie beneath her enchanting facade.

- The Fox's Wedding

This tale takes us into the realm of yokai, where a fox bride and her entourage prepare for a grand wedding celebration. Mizuki's illustrations capture the surreal beauty of this supernatural event, showcasing the harmonious coexistence of humans and yokai in the countryside.

Shigeru Mizuki: The Master of Yokai
