In the vast and enigmatic depths of Siberia, amidst frozen landscapes and ancient forests, a forgotten history of music has come to light. These forgotten instruments, once vibrant voices in homes and concert halls, now bear witness to a bygone era, offering a poignant glimpse into the human spirit's unyielding connection to music.

Lost in Time, Found in Timelessness

The pianos' odyssey began in the early 20th century, when they were transported from Europe and America to the remote corners of Siberia. These instruments found their homes in schools, churches, and private residences, bringing solace and inspiration to communities nestled among the taiga. As the years passed, however, the pianos were gradually abandoned, left to molder in the harsh climate and the relentless march of time.
